DETAILED ACTION

1. This non-final Office action is responsive to Applicant's election filed July 3, 2007. Applicant has elected Group II (claim 2) without traverse. Claims 1 and 3 stand as withdrawn.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because it contains an embedded hyperlink and/or other form of browser-executable code. Applicant is required to delete the embedded hyperlink and/or other form of browser-executable code. See MPEP § 608.01.

3. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

4. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it is too long. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lupien et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,845,266).

Lupien discloses a system for creating a portfolio of assets and executing trades in the assets to modify the portfolio, comprising:

[Claim 2] a) a first processor interfaced with an investor's PC to select a plurality of assets to be in the investor's portfolio based on the investor's indicated preferences, to manage the portfolio in accordance with market changes and changes in the investor's indicated preferences, and to electronically place at least one trading order in accordance with the investor's indicated preferences (Figs. 2, 6, 7; col. 6, lines 29-39; col. 7, lines 30-47; col. 16, lines 25-29; col. 17, line 31 through col. 18, line 32 – The trader's buy and sell baskets should be kept balanced. A trader's preference to become more or less aggressive about buying/selling a given security may change based on the execution status of other securities in the trader's actual/desired basket; col. 19, lines 23-26);

b) a communication interface coupled to the processor and coupled to a plurality of other investors by which the processor electronically places the at least one order (col. 6, lines 29-39; col. 19, lines 23-26);

c) a central processor coupled to the communication interface, receiving a plurality of trading orders from among the plurality of investor's PC's, including at least one economically unviable trading order, and electronically forwarding the aggregated trading orders for execution to a third party (Figs. 4, 6, 7; col. 6, lines 29-39; col. 11, lines 1-16; col. 14, lines 5-62 – A price and/or size limit or match of a trade may make or break the potential trade; col. 19, lines 23-26).

As per claim 2, Lupien states, "The CMC 2 can be coupled to an automated clearing system and/or accounting system. Orders that are matched can then be automatically output to such system(s) to assist in 'backoffice' procedures." (Col. 19, lines 23-26) Lupien does not expressly disclose that all received trading orders [which include at least one economically unviable trading order] are aggregated into a single order for each asset among the received trading orders; however, Lupien does send the matched orders to an automated clearing system and/or accounting system. Official Notice is taken that it was old and well-known in the art of finance at the time of Applicant's invention to approve or disapprove a transaction through an accounting system. Those of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention would have predicted that, if the accounting system determines that a particular trading order is economically unviable, then the trading order would likely not be approved (thereby preventing loss of profit to the party that would be owed money as part of the proposed trading order). Therefore, the Examiner submits that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of Applicant's invention to modify Lupien such that all received trading orders [which include at least one economically unviable trading order] are aggregated into a single order for each asset among the received trading orders in order to take advantage of Lupien's accounting system to determine that a particular trading order is economically unviable so that the trading order would likely not be approved (thereby preventing loss of profit to the party that would be owed money as part of the proposed trading order).

Double Patenting

7. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

8. Claim 2 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-86 of U.S. Patent No. 6,601,044.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claim of the instant application is fully anticipated by the claims of the patent. Elimination of an element or its functions is deemed to be obvious in light of prior art teachings of at least the recited element or its functions (see In re Karlson, 136 USPQ 184, 186; 311 F2d 581 (CCPA 1963)).

9. Claim 2 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-37 of U.S. Patent No. 6,996,539.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claim of the instant application is fully anticipated by the claims of the patent. Elimination of an element or its functions is deemed to be obvious in light of prior art teachings of at least the recited element or its functions (see In re Karlson, 136 USPQ 184, 186; 311 F2d 581 (CCPA 1963)).
